The ACT Lady

Jennifer Henson (a.k.a "The GOAL DIGGER") is a nationally sought after test prep expert specializing in the ACT test. Jennifer, who was Winton Woods City School's (OH) Teacher of the Year in 2014, holds a Master of Education degree with a Bachelor's in English from Xavier University—where she was a walk-on tennis player. She's taught 21 years and coached ACT prep for over 7 years-- and has an army of teachers trained to assist her requests for tutorials. Her former ACT students now attend notable higher learning institutions, including Notre Dame, The Ohio State University, Texas A&M, The Naval Academy, and the University of Kentucky—among others.

Jennifer has assisted students from California to Connecticut—and states in between—to reach their personal ACT goals. No score is too low or too high, as she has doubled the scores of students starting at the low end, in addition to helping initially higher scoring students achieve the coveted 36 on every section of the test. Two young men playing D1 football had a composite score of a 9 originally, and scored 18 and 20 (respectively) after working with her. Two of her former clients now have NFL experience.

The Program

Over the past several years, Jennifer has devised a proven program that identifies student strengths and areas of needed improvement, and tailors instruction to address individual student needs. The program is comprised of teacher-led instruction and self-managed studying and incorporates elements of evidence-based learning strategies.

The teachers need between 12 and 15 lessons with students, depending on their need (original score). Students will have approximately 2 hours of homework after one-on-one session. The lessons start approximately 3 months in advance of the test they wish to take.

The Story

"Seven years ago, I was approached by my principal and superintendent to help a young man with a full football scholarship to the University of Louisville. I stumbled my way through prepping him for the ACT-- but he earned what he needed. I knew then that the ACT was very teachable, and I could help others. I read and read and read-- and tried new strategies until I perfected my lessons. Well, one coach talked to another coach who talked to others-- and I became the go-to in Cincinnati for prepping athletes. I can help struggling students meet minimums, or higher achieving students who need higher scores to earn monies not covered by their sports scholarships. Last year, due to my husband's job, we moved across the country to the Houston area. Parents and students in Cincinnati asked me to tutor via Skype. I was hesitant at first, and I am now sorry I hesitated. The results via Skype have been comparable to in-person tutoring. I thoroughly enjoy tutoring and receive great satisfaction knowing that I've assisted someone in reaching a goal on the way to achieving their dreams."
